

English

At Hollin, we believe that all children should be able to read and enjoy books. We know that children who read for pleasure are more likely to succeed in life so we want them to learn to love books and reading.

By sharing fantastic stories, rhymes, poems and non-fiction books, children can appreciate and listen to texts which they would not be able to experience reading themselves.

Children who read well are more likely to write imaginatively.

Children are given opportunities to write for purpose using a range of books and stimuli including ICT and drama as well as practical experiences. Teachers aim to make opportunities for writing inspiring, challenging and exciting. We are proud of the investment we make into high quality texts and resources to support learning in English.

A link to the national curriculum for English can be found here.